

Efstathios Detorakis completed fellowships in Oculoplastics and Ocular Oncology at Southampton University Hospital, Salisbury District Hospital (2000-2001) and Jules Stein Eye Institute, UCLA (2001-2002). He was appointed clinical lecturer at Democritus University of Thrace (2002-2006), consultant ophthalmic surgeon (2006-2010) and assistant professor in Ophthalmology at the University of Crete (2010-present day). He has authored over 90 peer reviewed publications (PubMed) with over 1300 citations, has received 3 research grants and is a reviewer for 23 peer reviewed journals. He is supervisor in 3 PhD and 13 Master theses and holds patent rights for a new type of antiglaucomatous valve.